

CONTRIBUTORS

Howard Balloch founded The Balloch Group, a Beijing-based consulting firm that is an active participant in the mining sector for both multinational and Chinese companies. He was the Canadian Ambassador to Beijing from 1996 to 2001.

John Berthelsen heads production for Research-Works. A 24-year veteran of Asia, he was previously head of production at Dresdner Kleinwort Wasserstein. He was most recently managing editor of The Standard of Hong Kong.

Philip Bowring is consultant to Research-Works on global and regional macro trends. He has lived in Asia for over 35 years as a prominent journalist who previously edited Asia's leading political and economic magazine, the Far Eastern Economic Review.

Justin Case is the senior China executive for a major multinational. He has lived and worked in China for 28 years in management positions across several industries, he is a keen observer of practices and trends among foreign companies as they wrestle with the challenges of a changing China.

Sam Crispin has been living in Shanghai since 1994. He is a member of the Royal Institute of Chartered Surveyors, Founder of Crispin's Property Investment Management which offers independent property investment and consultancy services across China (www.cpcproperty.com) and Chairman, British Chamber of Commerce, Shanghai.

Pete Fritz first came to China in 1990 and has lived in China for 12 years. He is the former CEO of a TSX listed junior mining company with exploration properties in China. He heads the mining section of the Balloch Group.

Andrew Hall heads telecommunications, power and energy research for Research-Works. He has covered Asian power and telecommunications companies from Hong Kong for over 20 years. Previously he was head of research at Dresdner Kleinwort Benson and prior to that, Swiss Bank Corp (UBS).

Hafidzah Hassan covered Asian steel companies for nearly 20 years. She previously worked with Merrill Lynch and Dresdner Kleinwort Benson. She now covers Asian steel companies for Research-Works, as well as road and rail companies.

Nicola Kerslake is director of fundamental research at SEI Investments, a US manager-of-manager firm. She has covered energy and petrochemicals over the last decade whilst based in Asia, primarily in Hong Kong and Taiwan.

Anna Kieryk is textiles analyst for Research-Works in Shanghai. She has lived in China for over six years. Previously she worked in the Chinese textile industry.

George Lauriat is the Boston-based publisher of the American Journal of Transportation. He has followed the marine sector in Asia since the early 1970s when he was shipping and energy correspondent for the Far Eastern Economic Review.

Ma Jun is director of the non-governmental Institute of Public and Environmental Affairs in Beijing. He is the author of the book China's Water Crisis (1999) assessing the human impact on China's water resources. Also an analyst with the environmental consulting firm Sinosphere, he was a Yale World Fellow in 2004.

Richard Martin is managing director of IMA Asia, which assists companies in assessing demand in the region. He has over 20 years experience in Asia as both a consultant and a researcher.

Hugh Peyman founded the Asian independent research firm Research-Works. Based in Shanghai, his involvement in China started more than 30 years ago. He previously directed Asian research at Merrill Lynch and Dresdner Kleinwort Benson.

Dr Marcus Schuetz is Executive in Residence and Adjunct Professor at the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology Business School. From 2003 to 2006 he was Director of Strategic Planning and Change Management at Shanghai Volkswagen Automotive Limited and conducted the company's turn around programme.

Ashok Sethi is the regional director methodology and analytics for TNS the largest marketing information provider in China, and the second largest research agency in the world, based in Shanghai.

Dr Wang Songqi is the vice president of the financial industry research institute of the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences in Beijing. He is a professor in the Graduate School of CASS and is the head of the Beijing Venture Capital Association. Dr Wang is the managing director of the 6th China Finance and Banking Society and the chief editor of the Banker magazine.

Andrew Torchia is Reuters bureau chief in Shanghai, has lived in Asia for 20 years and has reported on the economies and markets of most countries in the region. He covered Japan's financial crisis in the late 1990s and ran the Asia-Pacific news team for Dow Jones Newswires, before moving to Shanghai in May 2006.

Alan Wheatley is China Economics Editor for Reuters, based in Beijing. Since joining the company in 1980, in the course of reporting from more than 40 countries, he has covered major financial events such as the Latin American debt crisis, the Plaza Accord, the 1987 stock market crash and the conception and birth of Europe's single currency.

Design is by Morgan Chua in Singapore and PPP Co., Limited of Hong Kong

Production has been co-ordinated by John Berthelsen. Assisting him have been Tom Gurney, Sun Feng, Zhao Zhenyi, Yang Zhilin, Xu Yemin, Tom Madden, Jasper Perkins, Cheng Zishuang and Ong Chengyi.

All information is provided in good faith but without legal responsibility. The information is not designed as a solicitation to buy or sell any securities or other financial instruments. The information and opinions are based on material that RESEARCH-WORKS and Quantum Information Services believe to be reliable, but RESEARCH-WORKS and Quantum Information Services make no representation as to their accuracy nor accepts any liability for any loss arising from the use of the research. None of the material or any copy of it may be altered or distributed to any party without express written permission from RESEARCH-WORKS and Quantum Information Services. Readers should consult their financial advisers before buying or selling any of the securities listed in this Handbook.